James A (Jim) Rodwell has, and continues to be, one of the foremost stewards of the natural resources of and around Fort Myers Beach. He was a member of the Anchorage Committee which was responsible for our anchorage in Estero Bay. He was a member of the Fertilizer Committee and was instrumental in writing and procuring approval of one of the most comprehensive fertilizer ordinances in Florida for the Town. He conducts educational tours of Matanzas Pass Preserve; making locals and visitors alike, aware of the natural environment of our barrier island. He is the most active and enthusiastic member, officer and board member of the Friends of Matanzas Pass Preserve. As such, he organizes and directs volunteer work days in the Preserve. He initiated a corrective restructuring of the Friends legal, regulatory and accounting status and systems. He has initiated a program to build a building at the Preserve to further the environmental awareness of the natural resources within our Town. As the Friends chief financial officer he has initiated and organized numerous fund raisers to help fund the building and the environmental educational objectives of the Friends and in doing so, along with his perpetual recruiting activities has grown the organization financially and in membership thereby creating a far greater awareness of the natural resources of our Town. He writes a weekly educational column in one of our weekly Town newspapers on "Island Flowers" which includes his own wild flower pictures. He does all of this with inspiring passion for our Town's environment and with tremendous energy and leadership.
